ARC RATED SAFETY GEAR

What is a HRC rating?

The Hazard Risk Category (HRC) is the level needed to protect against a specific amount of incident energy (measured in calories per cm²).

What is GSM?

GSM is the fabric weight; the higher the GSM, the thicker and heavier the fabric. Lighter GSM is more comfortable, but offers less UV and FR protection.

What is an ATPV rating?

Arc Thermal Protective Value rates a garment's protection capabilities. ATPV refers to the amount of energy the PPE can be exposed to while preventing a 2nd-degree burn. The HIGHER the ATPV rating, the more protection it gives.

What is FR fabric?

Bisley use a patented FR fabric which won't wash or wear out, and will last the lifetime of the material. Cheaper, chemically treated fabrics are on the market, but it is important to be aware that these tend to wash out after 5 - 6 washes.

What is arc-rated clothing?

Arc-rated clothing is made from flame resistant fabric, which will self-extinguish as soon as the fire source is removed. Normal fabrics will ignite easily and will continue to burn until they are consumed.

What's required on NSW utilities?

Full length arc-rated workwear is compulsory for all people working on or near the NSW utilities, in compliance with the ENA NENS09 guidelines.
